

CJRF

Climate
Justice
Resilience
Fund

Understanding Climate Justice: A Grantmaking Perspective

January 21, 2019

Heather McGray

What is Climate Justice?

Introducing CJRF: Climate Justice Resilience Fund

Photo Credit: YPSA, Bangladesh

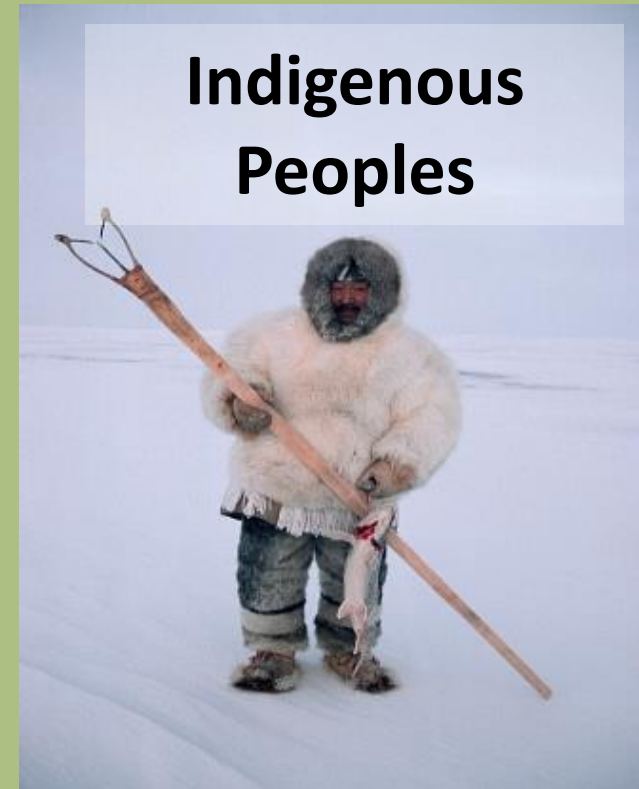

Who: Fund Constituencies

Women

Youth

Indigenous Peoples

What: Project Entry Points

- Access to water
- Food security/sovereignty
- Sustainable livelihoods
- Migration and relocation

How: Our Pillars of Work

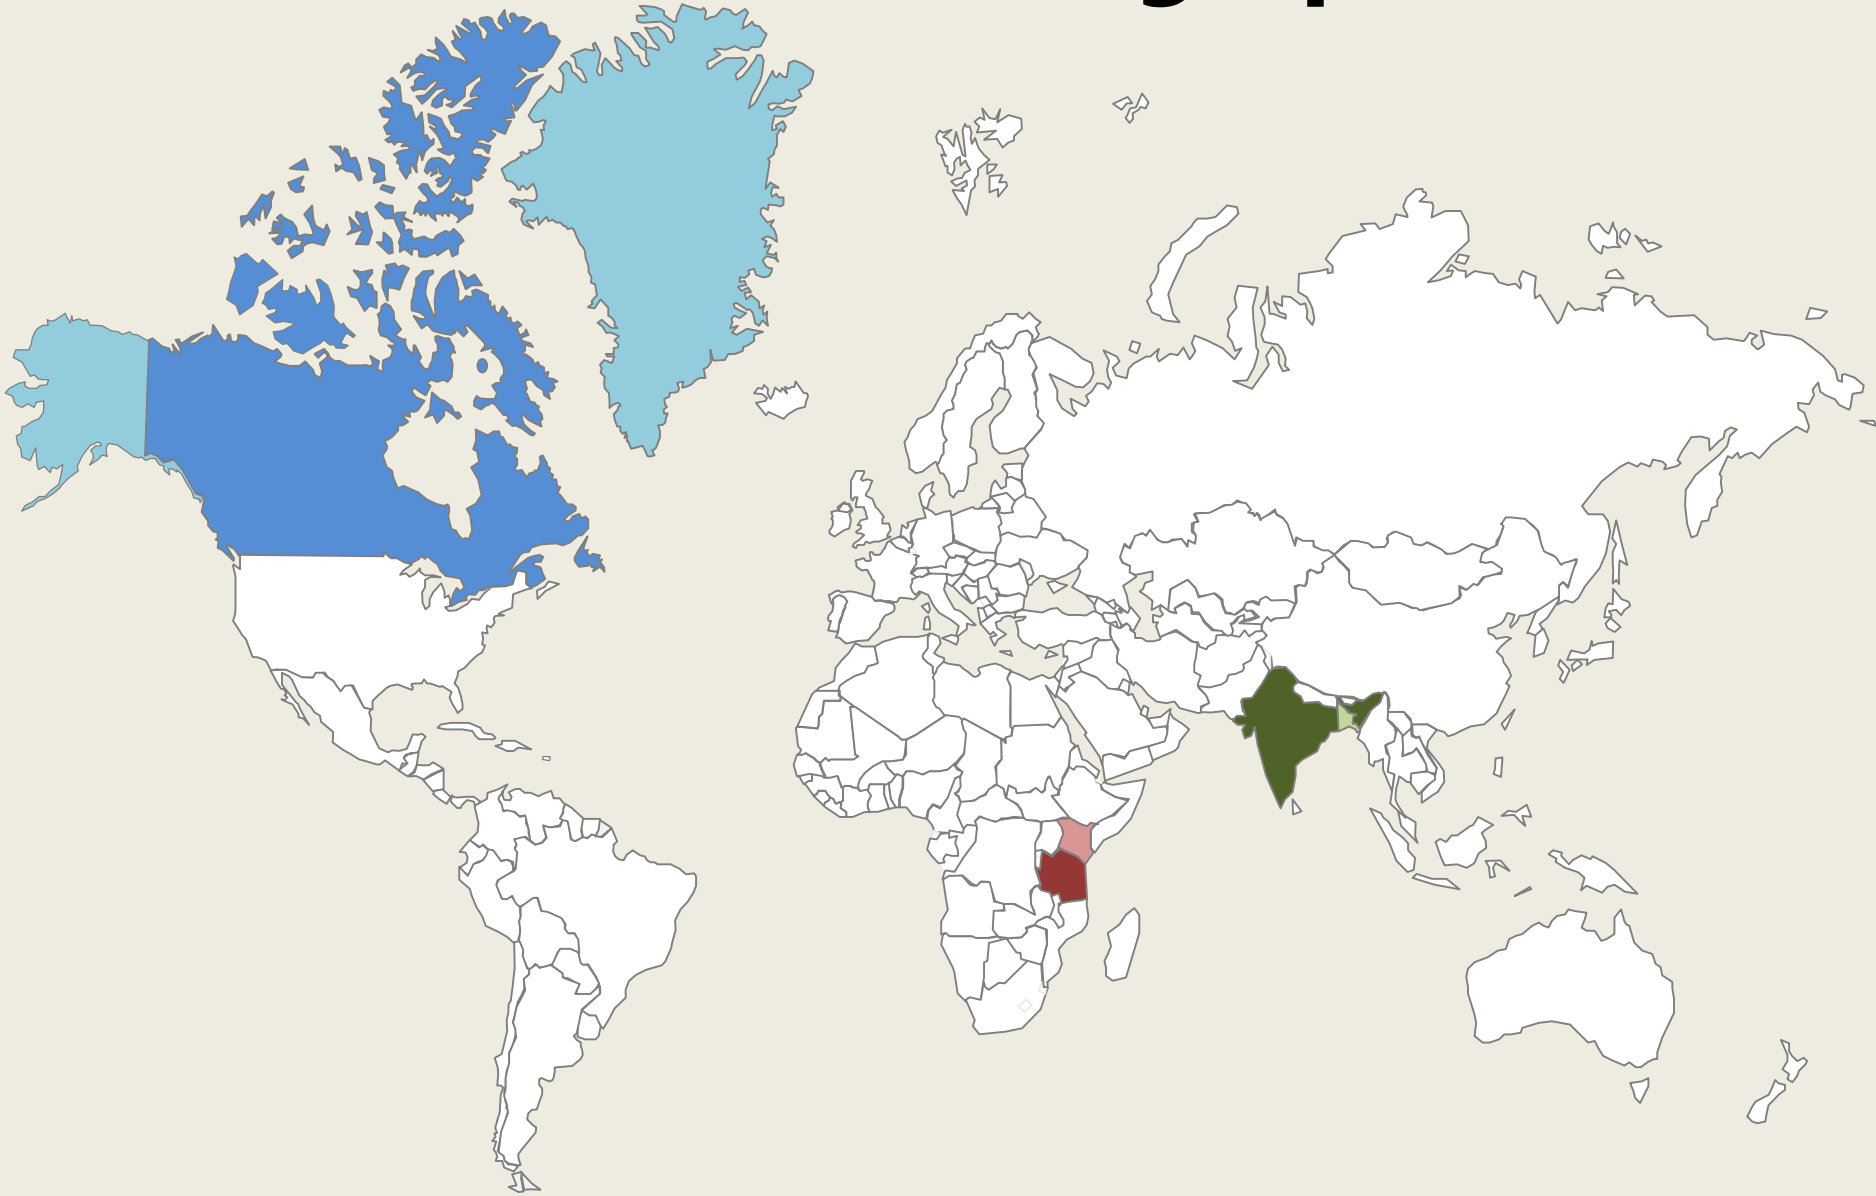

- Advocacy
- Access to Information
- Local Initiatives
- Movement Infrastructure
- Leadership Development

How: Working From Local to Global

Where: Focal Geographies

East Africa

IMPACT

Indigenous Movement For Peace Advancement &
Conflict Transformation

Bay of Bengal

ALASKA NATIVE
TRIBAL HEALTH
CONSORTIUM

The Arctic

Climate Justice: Why does it matter?

HUAIROU COMMISSION
Women, Homes & Community

A group of approximately 15-20 people are sitting on the ground in a circle under the shade of a large, leafy tree. They are in an outdoor setting with a body of water in the background and a thatched-roof building to the right. The scene is bright and sunny.

Thank you!

heather.mcgray@cjrfund.org